CORN CLUB FOR ADAMS COUNTY

Steps taken to form Boys Corn Clubs in County. State College Representative at Meeting Saturday afternoon. Committee Appointed.

Plans for the establishment of a boys or young peoples yearly agricultural contest were outlined at a meeting in the County court house Saturday afternoon. County Superintendent Roth received a communication a short time ago from the Agricultural Extension Department of State College, who are furthering the movement known as the "Corn Growing Clubs" throughout the State, and issued a general call for the people of the county interested in agriculture to meet with the purpose of effecting an organization.

Representatives of the seven granges and farmers organizations already established in the county, together with a number of other interested people, were on hand and listened to the plan outlined by Mr. F. S. Bucher, the man sent here by State College, who gave an instructive talk concerning the benefits to be derived from such a club. He said that the movement had been started by Cornell University in 1895 in the State of New York. It met with success there, and the next State to take it up was Nebraska in 1905. From that time it spread rapidly over the middle west until today there are more than 75,000 boys interested in these contests and annually competing for prizes. No state-wide effort has previously been made to organize these contests in Pennsylvania, but Bradford, Butler, Blair, Bedford, Mercer, Montgomery and Washington counties have gone so far that they have a special agent who supervises the corn growing work. Some of the prizes have been given and exhibitions held in York, Lancaster and Berks counties, but no definite organization is yet completed in these counties. Adams county is the first one to formerly respond to the call issued by State College. This, as well as other acceptances of advanced schools in farming shown in Adams county within recent years, indicates that our people are abreast of the progressive wave in agricultural developments.

Mr. Bucher suggested that a general invitation be extended to the boys and young men, through the school teachers, to meet Prof. Roth at a specified time after the plans have been completed; and then have instructions to deliver to them. In order to have the plan a success this year it is necessary to complete the details without delay.

A number of people then spoke in commendation of the idea and a general discussion followed which brought forth many good suggestions. As a result of the meeting Prof. Roth determined to issue a circular to be read by the teachers of the different schools stating what had been done and urging the boys to fill out application blanks promptly. To insure that this would be attended to without delay it was suggested that all applicants forward blanks before April 1st would become charter members of the club. It was also suggested that girls as well as boys be allowed to compete for the prizes, and unless the present plan is superseded some of the boys will have to compete with their sisters.

The county will be divided into districts—either school or township—and the best three exhibits of each district, at the end of the season, will be sent to the main county exhibit. The conditions of the contest will, of course, be arranged to comply with those of the state contest so the winner of the county exhibit may compete for state or other prizes offered. A committee representing each of the county agricultural organizations present was appointed to secure funds for the prizes and to co-operate with Prof. Roth in arranging details of the contest. It consists of the following members:

C. A. Gries, representing the Fruit Growers Association; Arthur Roberts, of the Adams County Agricultural Association; H. C. Hartman, of the South Mountain Grange; Curtis Peters, of the Biglerville Poultry Association; Curtis Sowers, of the Cashtown Grange; Edward Trostle, of the Hunterstown Grange; George D. Sheely, of the New Oxford Grange.

EXTRA CLERK AT POST OFFICE

Additional Service will be given March 4th. New Carrier also Appointed. Routes Changed and Working Hours Shortened.

Word has been received from the Post Office Department that another clerk will be allowed for the Gettysburg office and Postmaster Beales has appointed Preston Hull of near Fairfield. Hull headed the list of male applicants that have passed the civil service examination for this position. He formerly taught school and is very popular in his community. It is thought that his selection will meet with general approval by patrons of the office.

This appointment was necessary to comply with the recent ruling of the Department that "no employ of the post office shall work more than eight hours a day, and those eight working hours to be confined within a period of ten hours". The office now contains six clerks including the assistant postmaster. This number of employees makes it possible to put into effect a new schedule on which Postmaster Beales has been working for some time.

Starting Tuesday, March 4th, the office will be open continuously from 6 a. m., until 10 p. m., each day except Sunday, for all business including the registry and money-order departments. The mail coming in over the Reading at nine o'clock will be distributed each evening and box holders will have an opportunity to get their mail the same day it is received. This arrangement will doubtless be a convenience to the town's visitors who frequently spend the day on the battlefield and have occasion to use the postoffice in the evening.

The town carrier routes have been re-arranged to include an extra man. Henry Garlich, formerly substitute carrier, has been given a regular route. Jesse Snyder who was formerly in the office, has exchanged places with Calvin Gilbert and now carries over part Gilbert's route. Miss Margaret Barr, of Carlisle street, who was in line for an appointment by reason of her being first on the civil service list, has been appointed substitute clerk.

DOBBINS HOUSE AFIRE

Historic Landmark on Fire For Second Time Within a Year.

Sunday afternoon about 12:35, for the second time within a year, the old "Dobbins" house on Steinwehr avenue sent forth an alarm of fire. Members of the Fire Company started with the ladders and hose reel, but were met with the word that only the chimney was burning, and turned back at the Battlefield Hotel. Neighbors already had the flame under control. It was extinguished shortly after with the aid of a small chemical apparatus.

The house is at present owned by Mrs. Henry B. Nixon, and occupied by three families; Mrs. Tillie Woldford, Mrs. Louisa Keckler and Mrs. Anna Sowers. The fire was in the chimney of the portion occupied by Mrs. Keckler. Most of the townspersons are familiar with the history of this old landmark. It was constructed in the year 1778, over a spring which for a long period furnished water for the entire neighborhood, and used as a school building. It is said to have been the first school built in Pennsylvania west of the Susquehanna river. Efforts have been made for the local chapter of the D. A. R. to purchase the building and convert it into a museum, but this action has never been taken.

It was suggested that all applicants forward blanks before April 1st would become charter members of the club. It was also suggested that girls as well as boys be allowed to compete for the prizes, and unless the present plan is superseded some of the boys will have to compete with their sisters.

The county will be divided into districts—either school or township—and the best three exhibits of each district, at the end of the season, will be sent to the main county exhibit. BOND ISSUE COMES UP SOON

State Legislature will Vote on Fifty Million Dollar Bond Issue for Good Roads this Term. Think it will pass.

Passage of the resolution submitting to the voters of Pennsylvania the question of whether the bonded debt of the State may at any time be increased to not more than $50,000,000 for improvement of roads by the present Legislature, is now regarded as assured owing to the manner in which the house has placed itself on record in favor of allowing the people to decide all questions involving amendment to the basic law of Pennsylvania. The Senate is considered as favorable to the amendment by a good majority, and the House, where any opposition to the resolution might be expected to be heard from, has already placed itself on record in regard to permitting popular vote in the case of the woman suffrage amendment and in ratification of the amendment to the Federal Constitution to provide popular election of United States Senators.

The misapprehensions in regard to the proposed bond issue amendment are rapidly passing away. It is now generally understood that the amendment would not require the issuance of $50,000,000 of bonds all at once, but that the $50,000,000 is the limit to which the Commonwealth may be bonded for roads, and that it is entirely within the control of the Legislature to say how many bonds may be put out and in what quantities. The $50,000,000 limit is exactly the same as the 7 per cent. of assessed valuation, which is the limit for counties, boroughs or townships to incur debt for improvements to streets or sewers.

The General Assembly can fix any limit it chooses for any year's issues of bonds. Moreover, the general policy which governs issues of bonds these days is to make them fit the needs, so that a certain number may be put out each year with the understanding that at the end of five years a certain number may be called in and redeemed from the sinking fund.

Under the organization of the State Highway Department only a certain amount of work could be handled in a year, and experience has shown that it would be well nigh impossible to handle much more than $50,000,000 or $75,000,000 worth of contracts a year. The question would be submitted to the people at such time as the Legislature may elect. The action of this Legislature would be to pass the resolution so that the people of the State could vote on the question the same as on other amendments. Then, if the amendment is ratified, the lawmakers can pass the necessary enabling legislation and road-building be commenced. The enactment of the amendment will mean much for this State. It will bring here thousands of tourists who spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year and who are now avoiding Pennsylvania because of its roads, although these are now immeasurably better than a year ago.

Figures showing Earnings for the Fast Half Year. Net Returns will have to be Increased to Show any Success.

According to the latest available monthly report of the Western Maryland railroad, that company is not yet out of the woods, says the Wall Street Journal. The recent statement, in which the directors called attention to the road's troubles and predicted that the high water mark for expenses and the low mark for net results would be found to have been reached in October, needs revision.

In October net earnings after expenses and taxes were $80,000; equivalent to 12.5 cents saved for net out of each dollar of gross revenue. In December, the latest month for which these figures are available, the net earnings after expenses and taxes were $70,000 and only 11

TONIGHT there will be more of a reunion when twenty-five of the president-elect's relatives will gather at the Shoreham hotel.

It was announced that on the 15th of the month thirty of the Escuela de Aspirantes cadets will leave the capital under command of their captain, and go to Paris, taking an invitation from the army for him to return to his fatherland.

Throughout Mexico the sentiment in favor of the former president is growing rapidly. His nephew, Felix Diaz, is almost certain to be the next president, and the services of the aged dictator are desired as an adviser.

It is thought he will surely return within a short time and occupy an unofficial position. There will be a wonderful ovation for him when he comes and the government will pay him almost royal honors. The Escuela cadets took a prominent part in the uprising against Madero, and for that reason were selected to make the journey and serve as a guard for the re-entry of the most powerful man that has governed Mexico in the last century.

The presence of Porfirio Diaz is counted upon to extinguish the last flames of the revolt against the dominant party. Mexicans are sick of trouble and are willing to take any measures which will restore tranquility to their country. The determination to recall the exiles is an indication of the growing supremacy of the Huerta-Diaz regime. Two weeks ago the bare suggestion would have precipitated a revolution.

Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, leader of the powerful Gomez faction, of which Emilio Gomez is the fighting chief, called in person upon General Felipe Diaz with a message of peace. He told Diaz that he and his brother are desirous of joining with the government in efforts to bring about pacification and also for the forthcoming election.

This move is considered to be of the utmost importance, as the Gomez family is most influential throughout the country and especially in the northern states.

As a further indication of the trend in popular regard and in government circles toward Porfirio Diaz, President Huerta has restored to active service many of the generals who were placed upon the retired list because they were opposed to the late President Madero. Among these are General Samuel Garcia Guerra and Eugenio Rascon, former minister of war.

An important step was taken by the government when the minister of finance presented in the chamber of deputies a bill authorizing a national loan of 100,000,000 pesos.

The Princeton students wanted to see Old Nassau before the White House. They will not be allowed to do so. Neither will they get the special seats they wanted at the capital.

However, they will escort the president-elect to his hotel upon his arrival this afternoon and share with the University of Virginia the privilege of seeing his escort tomorrow morning.

More than 150,000 visitors are already in the city. The jostling throngs in the hotel corridors, railroad stations and on Pennsylvania and tributary avenues include in their numbers the great men of the nation, together with its "future greats," "has-beens," "jane flocks," thousands of the "great middle class," adventurers in broadcloth and others in rags; in short, an American crowd.

The great men of the nation, those on whom the halo of public office has rested for some time, are easily distinguishable by their too apparent effort at indifference; the cultivated expression of boredom; while the newly-made leaders likewise stand out in the mob by virtue of swelling chests and a general look of importance.

MEXICO WANTS ELDER DIAZ BACK

Cadets to Go to Paris to invite Him to Return.

DESIRED AS AN ADVISER

Presence of the Old Dictator is Counted Upon to Extinguish the Last Spark of Revolt Against Dominant Party.

Mexico City, March 8.—The republic of Mexico, which once deposed and exiled Porfirio Diaz, so long its president, because his hand was heavy, now wants him to come back and help the country out of its troubles.

It was announced that on the 13th of the month thirty of the Escuela de Aspirantes cadets will leave the capital, under command of their captain, and go to Paris, taking an invitation from the army for him to return to his fatherland.

Throughout Mexico the sentiment in favor of the former president is growing rapidly. His nephew, Felix Diaz, a cousin of the president-elect; Professor Stockton Axson, a brother of Mrs. Wilson, and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Mr. Wilson's cousin, who has been acting as Mrs. Wilson's secretary, and who will make her home at the White House. About 600 Princeton students were selected to make the journey and serve as a guard for the re-entry of the most powerful man that has governed Mexico in the last century.

The presence of Porfirio Diaz is counted upon to extinguish the last flames of the revolt against the dominant party. Mexicans are sick of trouble and are willing to take any measures which will restore tranquility to their country. The determination to rescue the exile is an indication of the growing supremacy of the Huerta-Diaz regime. Two weeks ago the bare suggestion would have precipitated a revolution.

Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, leader of the powerful Gomez faction, of which Emilio Gomez is the fighting chief, called in person upon General Felix Diaz with a message of peace.

He told Diaz that he and his brother are desirous of joining with the government in efforts to bring about pacification and also for the forthcoming election.

This move is considered to be of the utmost importance, as the Gomez family is most influential throughout the country and especially in the northern states.

As a further indication of the trend in popular regard and in government circles toward Porfirio Diaz, President Huerta has restored to active service many of the generals who were placed upon the retired list because they were opposed to the late President Madero. Among these are General Samuel Garcia Guiller and Eugenio Rascon, former minister of war.

An important step was taken by the government when the minister of finance presented in the chamber of deputies a bill authorizing a national loan of 100,000,000 pesos.

Among these are General Samuel Garcia Guiller and Eugenio Rascon, former minister of war.

After engaging railroad transportation to New York last week, with the intention of going to meet his family in Havana, it is learned, he remained in Ithaca in the care of friends. He was deeply affected by the tragic death of his brothers.

It is now thought young Madero will go to Havana tomorrow. He is anxious to join his family there to discuss plans for the future.
